Share best practice with universities and educational experts worldwide

Creating transformative online courses as a member of an Epigeum development group is both a valuable institutional investment and a rewarding professional experience.

We want the best possible product if we are going to use it with our students. How best to be able to do that than be part of the creation?

Lesley O’Keeffe, Director of Student Services, Brunel University London

I found the whole two days extremely useful and well structured. It was great to have the time to discuss and workshop ideas with so many experts.

Sophie Karanikolas, Academic Lead, CPD, University of Adelaide

I have never had the opportunity to be involved in a collaborative writing process so it was a genuinely exciting process.

Sandra Lusk, UCL ChangeMakers Project Officer, University College London

Discover the benefits of our collaborative development model

- Access premium, interactive content at a speed, quality, and level of investment that are rarely achievable for a single institution acting alone
- Provide significant input into the planning and development of the programme, to match your institution’s needs
- Participate in a programme launch workshop with international subject specialists, sharing insights and best practices
- Experience career-enhancing interactions via extensive networking opportunities
- Receive a campus-wide unlimited licence to the course material in perpetuity

We partner with universities to create the courses

- Institutions are invited to join the development group - paying a one-off fee to gain access to the finished resource in perpetuity
- Members of the group review the content throughout the development process, to ensure it meets the needs of their institution

The universities give feedback; together we perfect the content

- Development group members peer-review the materials as they are developed into online courses
- The feedback from universities and experts guarantees the quality of the programme

We test and launch the interactive courses

- Revisions are made, and the final programme is checked and tested
- The finished programme is launched, and development group members’ campus-wide licences are activated
- The programme is made available for other universities to access on a subscription basis

Together we are more than the sum of our parts
