

Tackling Harassment: Promoting Cultural Change in Higher Education

Take a holistic approach to tackling harassment and hate

Consisting of a complementary pair of interactive, online courses, Tackling Harassment combines evidence-based best practices with expert learning design to enable institutions to raise awareness, counteract barriers to reporting and intervention, and encourage positive cultural change throughout the university community.

The online, modular format of Tackling Harassment will enable institutions to deliver essential training in a non-judgmental, accessible, and engaging 'safe space'. The programme can complement existing in-person initiatives, facilitating the up-scaling of prevention and response training across the whole university community.

Module 1: Being an active bystander

- What is harassment?
- What is discrimination?
- Hate incidents and crime
- Online harassment and hate
- The impact of harassment and hate
- Being an active bystander
- Reporting
- Strategies for intervening
- Skills evaluation and module summary
- Sources of support

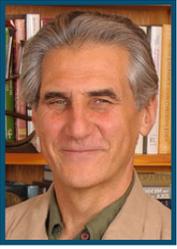

Module 2: Responding to disclosures

- Introduction
- Recognising harassment and hate
- When does free speech become hate speech?
- Harassment and hate misconceptions
- The impact of harassment and hate
- Barriers to reporting
- Signposting and reporting
- Responding to a disclosure
- Putting it to practice
- Skills evaluation and module summary
- Sources of support

For more information, and to request a free trial for your institution, visit: www.epigeum.com/tackling-harassment

Dr Alan Berkowitz, Expert Advisor

Award-winning Independent Consultant, specialising in culture change, gender issues, ending men's violence, and fostering social justice.

Angie Wright, Author

Angie Wright works as an educator for Stop Hate UK, the leading UK charity combatting hate in all its forms.

Expert Panel

- Leo Adams – Disabled Students' volunteer officer, NUS
- Dr Jason Arday – Assistant Professor, Sociology, University of Durham
- Stephanie Brookman – Associate Director, Student Wellbeing, The University of Newcastle
- Athena Enderstein – EDI Lead, Durham University
- Sara Khan – Vice President – Liberation and Equality, NUS
- Mia Nembhard – Women's volunteer officer, NUS
- Kaushika Patel – Pro Vice-Chancellor, De Montfort University
- Professor David Richardson – Vice-Chancellor, University of East Anglia
- Professor Matt Williams – Professor of Criminology and Director, Hate Lab, Cardiff University
- Emily Wertans – Lead Researcher & Teaching Fellow, Centre for Hate Studies, University of Leicester

Find out more: www.epigeum.com/tackling-harassment

Follow us: @Epigeum

Follow us: Epigeum