

Discover the practical knowledge and skills needed to provide an effective and survivor-centred first response to disclosures of sexual violence

The new edition of Responding to Disclosures of Sexual Violence ensures university staff and student leaders are equipped to provide a first response, and to signpost to potential sources of further support with confidence. The overall approach is more trauma-informed, shifting the emphasis from reporting, to responding and providing support.

Programme structure

Setting the context

Understanding and supporting survivors

Steps to take when responding

Access Responding to Disclosures of Sexual Violence:

